PROBABLE FATAL RESULTS.

Madrid 27th—H M Queen Victoria arrived to-day at San Sebastian and was welcomed by Queen Cristina. Both sovereigns were enthusiastically cheered by the populace.

Paris 27th—In consequence of some remarks contained in a correspondence from Paris publsshed by the B. Ayres La Nacion on 21st Feb. M. Lissagaray of the Bataille challenged the author M Paul Foucher. The duel took place this morning with swords, Mr Foucher being wounded severely in the right breast.

Paris, 28th—M. Foucher's state continues serious.

San Sebastian, 28th—Queen Victoria returned to-day to Biarritz.

H. M. Queen Christina will return to Madrid to-morrow.

PRINCE OF TROTTERS FOR B. AYRES.

LAST MOMENTS OF JOHN BRIGHT.

QUEEN VICTORIA IN SPAIN.

EMBASSY NOMINATIONS BY PRESIDENT HARRISON.

LOSS OF S. S. COUSERIA.

New York 28th—Some parties from B. Ayres have purchased in Philadelphia the famous trotter Prince Wilkes.

London 28th—John Bright died yesterday, at 8.30 p.m. His last moments were tranquil, undisturbed by the slightest pain. For some days past he lay in a state of lethargy, and was constantly attended by the members of his family. In House of Commons Mr W H Smith for the Government made reference to the severe loss sustained by the country in Bright's death, adding that he would postpone further expression of sympathy until Saturday when Mr W E Gladstone would be present. Bright was M. P. for the Central Division of Birmingham.

Hamburg 28th—Last steamer of Weismann expedition to East Africa cleared to-day for Zanzibar with a crowd of officers.

San Sebastian, 28th—Queen Victoria visited San Sebastian yesterday. The representatives of the Queen Regent received the Royal visitor on the frontier. On the arrival of the train there were salvos of artillery. The Queen, on alighting, kissed Queen Christina. The whole pathway was lined with soldiers and military bands, the latter playing the National Anthem. Populace enthusiastic. After lunch the Queen took carriage for the Municipal Hall where a splendid throne had been erected. Audience was then given by Queen Victoria to the Lord Mayor, and Basque games and dances followed. On arrival at the station farewells were spoken, but at the last moment Queen Christina and suite accompanied Queen Victoria in the train to Irun where the final farewell took place.

Washington, 28th—The President sent the following nominations to the Senate Minister for Peru, John Hicks, Wisconsin; for Portugal, G. H. Loring, Massachusetts; Great Britain, Robert H. Lincoln, Illinois; Germany, Murat Halstead, Ohio; Russia, Allen Thorndike, New York; Chile, Patrick Egan, Nebraska; Mexico, Thomas Ryan, Kansas.

The nomination of Lincoln was a surprise and due to the fact that the President did not wish to distinguish between Depew and Evarts.

N. York 28th—There seems to be little doubt that the wreckage picked up on the atlantic coasts belongs to the steamship Couseria which left N. York on Wednesday for Sto. Domingo; the agents of the steamer deny the rumor that an infernal machine had been shipped in the steamer.

*THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Antibes, Feb. 16th

After four months of tiresome proceedings the Times has at last come to the story of the letters alleged to have been written by Mr. Parnell. They were obtained by the manager of the Times from Mr. Houston, secretary of the Landlords' Defence Association, who received altogether £4000 for his services, Mr. Soames being unable to say how much was exactly paid for the letters and how much for other services. It seems that Mr. Houston led the Times to believe that he got the letters from Mr. Pigott, whoever he may be. How much Houston paid Pigott for them we may hear when the former comes up for examination.

I think it was either Lord Roseberry or Lord Bessborough who stated at a meeting in England last May that the letters had been offered him for £1000. They were also offered to Archbishop Walsh for the same sum. Like the Sybilline books the oftener they were refused only raised their value, for it seems that the Times paid at least three times the amount first demanded.

When that arch-imposter Shapira, of Amsterdam, presented to the British government, in 1882, a manuscript roll of the Old Testament, as old as the days of Macchabeus, he demanded one million sterling. The fraud was detected by Dr. Ginsburg, of the British Museum, and Shapira committed suicide. But if the British Museum had been as desirous to get the Hebrew manuscript as the Times was to get these letters Mr. Shapira would have succeeded in selling it for an enormous amount.

But, even at £4000 the letters, whether the Times really believed them genuine or not, proved a splendid investment. An Irishman named Flanagan, son of Judge Flanagan of Dublin, was employed to write the series of articles known as "Parnellism and Crime," and such was the effect on the English mind that the circulation of the Times, which is said to have fallen to 20,000 copies, was doubled in three months.

In two respects, therefore, the letters have been a great success. They were a windfall either to Houston or his friend Pigott, and they brought a golden shower to Mr. Whlter and his people. It remains to be seen how far they will stand the test of further enquiry. If Houston comes forward to prove that he paid Pigott £3000 for them it will be necessary for Pigott to give evidence how they came into his possession. If they be forged, Pigott may abscond, and then it may be enquired whether such a person ever existed?

After all, how little men learn by History. If Titus Oates were to get out of his grave and swear to-morrow against Mr. Parnell, a jury would believe him.

(* Delayed.)

Antibes, Feb. 23rd.

The sudden collapse of the Times when the investigation reached the forged letters has taken by surprise some of Mr. Parnell's enemies, and the Morning Post tells us that Pigott's examination caused great laughter. Even the judges rushed away from the bench, adjourning in haste, while many of the people in court crowded round Mr. Parnell to shake hands with him. It is unnecessary for me to point out the dismal tale of treachery and scheming which was unfolded on Tuesday and the two succeeding days, exceeding anything heard in a British court of justice during the present generation. The Tichborne trial was nothing to it.

Pigott's own story shows to what degradation an unprincipled man on the verge of starvation may be brought. The tempter came to him with an offer of a guinea a day provided he "supplied materials" for a case against Mr. Parnell. He supplied three batches of letters, for which the Times paid £2,620 sterling "without asking questions". He would doubtless have supplied many more, but that the Times had enough. It does not appear how much of the £2,600 reached him, as the money was paid to Houston, agent of the Landlords' Defence Association. The Times and Houston were so reserved in their mode of dealing that it is next to impossible to say how far they considered the letters likely to be genuine. Mr. Buckle, the nominal editor of the Times, refused to have anything to say to the letters; but MacDonald, a Scotchman, who was, I believe, originally the head mechanic in the press department, and who has been for some years the man "who runs the Times", came to terms with Houston, and the result is nothing short of a crowning disaster for the first newspaper in Europe.

It is bad enough for a newspaper to be hoaxed, but when the manager declares that he shut his eyes as to the origin of the forged letters (which had not even envelopes) and soothed his conscience by comparing the signatures and consulting experts, the public can only come to one conclusion, that the Times is no longer to be trusted. The evidence of Pigott reminds one forcibly of Titus Oates. His sitting with five Fenian leaders around a table at Paris, where it was resolved to give him the letters to criminate Mr. Parnell; the plot to assassinate the Prince of Wales and Mr. Gladstone; the batch of letters found in a leather bag (instead of a meal tub), and the mysterious group of men "who were downstairs in the hotel while Houston and Dr. Maguire examined the letters"—all make up the most absurd story since the days of Oates. Why did not Houston and Maguire get a glimpse of these men? Of cousse they never existed and were merely coined by Pigott, to get the money for the letters.

If the Government wish to clear themselves of the filth that attaches to all concerned in the business, they will at once order Pigott to be prosecuted for forgery. It is difficult to judge whether they have sufficient evidence to accuse the others of conspiracy. Meantime the Pigott-Houston business will be an incalculable benefit hy shewing the stuff of which the Landlords' Defence Association is composed. Moreover we now see pretty clearly why the letters were so long kept in the background and the Court wearied with tales of atrocity and murder that were never disputed.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Feb. 27th.

PIGOTT BREAKS DOWN. PIGOTT CONFESSES TO FORGERY AND PERJURY. PIGOTT BOLTS. THE ATTORNEY GENERAL APOLOGISES. THE COMMISSION ADJOURNS TO MARCH 13TH.

In the second edition of the Times of this morning the advertisements of the pamphlets "O Donnel V Walter" and "Parnellism and Crime" were withdrawn. The readers of the Times who required a copy of the latter were informed that it was out of print. Such is the latest and certainly the most significant fact in the present exciting and bewildering situation. Last Saturday afternoon, whilst I was writing to you upon things in general, it appears that Mr Henry Labouchere, Mr George Augustus Sala and our friend Mr Pigott were in close conclave in Mr Labouchere's library in Grosvenor Gardens. Mr Richard Pigott, a middle-aged gentleman of 54, but looking 64, after doing a little business in the sale of indecent photos and immoral books, and in forging bills for small amounts, conceived the idea of utilising the zeal of Mr Houston, the stupidity of Mr Soames, the Times solicitor, the vanity of its business manager, Mr Macdonald, and the malignant lust of Mr Walter the acting proprietor of that journal, who represented his friend Mr W H Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, and all the equally stupid and malignant well-to-do Smiths in the Queen's realm, by forging the hand-writing and signatures of Mr Parnell and other Irish nationalist leaders, so as to convict them of aiding and abetting if not directly inciting to crime and assassination. Last Saturday dreading further cross-examination by Sir Charles Russell, Mr Pigott, seeing the game was up, wrote to Mr Labouchere offering to make a full confession. This he did in presence of Mr Sala, who attended as witness and who in to-day's Daily Telegraph gives an account of the meeting in Grosvenor Gardens and of the business transacted. Profound secrecy was maintained. For Sir Charles Russell himself as well as the Court were astonished when yesterday morning, soon after the proceedings at the commission had commenced, Mr Pigott's name was called and there was no response. Soon there was a flutter and a running about in court and the word passed like lightning from the court to the street—"Pigott has bolted." Sir Charles Russell immediately demanded a warrant for his arrest. The Attorney General, Webster, the Solicitor General, Clark, the whole of the Times clique were abashed. The confusion was complete. In vain the President asked "Mr Attorney" if he had no other witness to go on with? No one knew what to do. Finally the court adjourned till to-day. Meanwhile the venue was changed from the Law Courts to Bow Street, whither Mr Parnell and Mr Labouchere hurry to make affidavit and get a warrant to arrest Pigott for forgery and perjury.

Between Temple Bar and Bow Street the crowd was great and all in excitement. It was a curious sight to see the Irish national leader repeatedly raising his hat like a royal personage to the acclamations of the London mob. "A little more of this "said a political friend to me," and we shall have Parnell in the Cabinet." A few squares off, some Americans and a better dressed British crowd were standing in the cold and in the drizzling snow feasting their eyes on the jewelry and finery of half-dressed women going to court. The Queen in person was holding a drawing room. God bless the ladies, their dresses, their diamonds, their liberal expanse of bare necks and backs and everything that—that is bless everything that is theirs; but whilst they were fooling in St. James' real history was being enacted in Bow Street and Temple Bar. The Unionists, or as they are now called the "pigottists," were being trampled upon, the old union was being supplanted by the union of hearts and of peoples, by a federal union of the three—and if Wales wills it, the four kingdoms in these islands. The evening and the morning were the first day. This morning the question in court was "has anything been heard of Pigott"? A letter from him with the Paris post mark was handed in, but it proved to be only a copy of the confession he had made to Mr. Labouchere and praying that the Times would be lenient with him for the sake of his poor children, to feed whom he had descended to infamy. As a matter of fact at this moment we know nothing of Pigott's place of retreat. His friends think he owes too much money in Paris to go there and that his favourite place is Lausanne, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Parnell's secretary, has gone to Antwerp in search of him. The Attorney General, cowed and pale, made in a humble whispering voice a formal apology in court for having published the letters which it is now known Pigott forged by tracing old letters on the window and copying parts of others he had procured. The most amusing fact in his confession was that in the second batch of his Parnell letters he had sold to Mr. Houston, he copied the signature from the fac simile published in the Times! When the wretched Attorney General this morning had finished his recantation, Sir Charles Russell requested that Mr. Parnell should be placed in the witness box. Accordingly the great nationalist leader for the first time appeared in person before the court. He went through the letters handed to him one by one, denying the authenticity of each. The Attorney General had no questions to put to him, and Charles Stewart Parnell, thin and pale but looking the image of a noble martyr for truth's sake, descended with supreme dignity from that harmless pillory which had been prepared to blast his reputation by what Sir Charles Russell has branded as—and intends still to prove to the bottom—"A foul and iniquitous conspiracy." A conspiracy of the classes—a conspiracy of noble renegades like the men Hartington and Derby selling their very souls—political—for rents—a conspiracy of skunks like Henry James and Chamberlain—a conspiracy of self-made snobs, Norths and Smiths, Walters, Joneses, Browns, Robinsons—contractors, directors, bankers, newspaper proprietors and moneyed thieves of every dye—a conspiracy of the old which Pigott has rung out whilst Parnell and Ireland are ringing in the new, and Britain from end to end, and America to the Colonies are echoing—"Have you seen the Globe?"—"The Globe be—" "Well" said my interlocutor "just look at it." I did. Of course what the Globe says is that the surrender of the Times upon the question of the letters gets rid of a portion of the case, which was a blunder from the beginning. It means to say that the real case is the complicity of the Irish leaders in outrage and crime by inciting to crime. The Globe says "those who triumph over Pigott had best take their triumph quietly. Sensations do not last long." When the Globe wrote that, it could not have known that whilst it was writing the Times had withdrawn the "Parnellism and Crime" advertisements. At the very outset of the proceedings in the Commission Sir James Haunen said emphatically and even petulantly that he was there to hear and judge certain "specific charges"—and so far not one of these charges has been proved. Even if the Court were to make a feature now of the police evidence so tediously iterated at the commencement of the inquiry, and were to divide the costs, the public thinks only of the letters and of Mr. Parnell, and whatever happens the unionists are damned and so is the Tory Government. Here endeth the fifty-seventh day of the Parnell Commission.

The Court is adjourned to Friday (March 1st) to give the "prosecution"—the Times and his old friend Smith—leisure to consider what is best for them to do under the circumstances.

REMARKABLE DOCUMENT.

PIGOTT'S AFFIDAVIT.

Saturday, 23rd Feb. 1389.

I, Richard Pigott, am desirous of making a statement before Henry Labouchere and George Augustus Sala; and I make this of my own free will, and without any monetary inducements, in the house of the former. My object is to correct inaccuracies in the report of my evidence in the Times, and also to make a full disclosure of the circumstances connected with the fabrication of the fac-simile letter published in the Times, and of the other letters attributed to Mr. Parnell, Mr Davitt, Mr. Egan, and Mr. O'Kelley, and produced by the Times in evidence. I stated that after I disposed of my newspapers in 1881 I continued in touch with the I R B. That is not true. I also stated that, to my own knowledge, Egan and others continued to be members of the I R B after the resignation of the positions held by them on the Supreme Council of that organization. In my account of my interview with Eugene Davis at Lausanne I stated that I made rough notes in his presence of the conversations which took place between us, which were embodied in the statement read in court. That is not correct. I made no notes. The statement was written by me on the following day from my recollection only. Davis made no statement on his own authority; we merely gossiped. I am now of opinion that he made no reference whatever to a letter of Mr. Parnell, which I stated was left in Paris with the other document by a fugitive Invincible. I gave the statement to Houston as the heads of a pamphlet which I stated Davis could write at a future time. He did promise to write a pamphlet against the Land League, but not founded on the contents of the statement. I agreed to pay him £100 for the pamphlet. The circumstances connected with the obtaining of the letters as I gave them in evidence is not true. No one save myself was concerned in the transaction. I told Houston that I had discovered the letters in Paris. I grieve to have to admit that I simply myself fabricated them, using genuine letters of Mr Parnell and Mr Egan in copying certain words and phrases, and the general character of the handwriting. I traced some of the words and phrases by putting the genuine letter against the window, and placing the sheet on which I wrote over it. These were the genuine letters from Mr Parnell, copies of which have been read in court, and four or five letters of Mr Egan, which were also read in court. I destroyed those letters after using them. Some of the signatures were, I think, traced in this manner and some I wrote. I then wrote to Houston telling him to come to Paris for the documents. I told him that they had been placed in a black bag with some old accounts and scraps of papers. On his arrival I produced the letter, accounts, and scraps, and after a very brief inspection he handed me a cheque on Cook for £500, the price that I had told him I had agreed to pay for them. At the same time he gave me £105 in bank notes as my own commission. The accounts put in were the leaves of one of my old account books which contained details of the expenditure of Fenian money entrusted to me from time to time. These are mainly in the handwriting of David Murphy, my cashier. The scraps of paper which I statad were found in the bag, were taken from an old writing desk of mine. I do not recollect in whose handwriting they are. The second batch of letters was also written by me. Parnell's signature was imitated from that published in the Times fac-simile letter. I do not now remember where I got the Egan letter from which I copied the signature. I had no specimen of Campbell's handwriting beyond two letters from Mr Parnell, which I presumed might be in Campbell's handwriting. I wrote to Houston, stating that this second batch was for sale in Paris, having been brought there from America. He wrote asking to see them. I forwarded them accordingly, and in three or four days he sent me a cheque on Cook for the price demanded, £550. The third batch consisted of a letter imitated by me from a letter written in pencil to me by Mr. Davitt when he was in possession of another letter copied by me from a letter of very early date which I received from Mr James O'Kelly when he was writing on my newspaper; and as to the third letter, ascribed to Egan, some of the words I copied from an old bill of exchange in Egan's handwriting. This third letter has been called the bakery letter. £200 was the price paid by Houston to me for these three letters. That was paid in bank notes. I have stated that for the first batch I received £105 for myself; for the second batch £50; and for the third I was supposed to have received nothing. I did not see Breslin in America; that was part of the deception. It was mutually agreed between Houston and myself that my name was not to be given, and that I should not mention his name. I did not learn until October, when I was taken by Houston to Mr Soames, that Houston had mentioned my name to Mr M'Donald. I had an angry correspondence with Mr Houston and Mr Soames, in consequence of what I considered a breach of faith. With respect to my interviews with Mr Lewis, Mr Parnell, and Mr Labouchere, my sworn statement is in the main correct. I am now, however, of opinion that the offer to me by Mr Labouchere of £1,000 was not for my evidence, but for any documents of Mr Egan's or Mr Parnell's handwriting that I might happen to have. My statement only referred to the first interview with these gentlemen. I had a further interview with Mr Labouchere, on which occasion I made him acquainted with further circumstances not previously mentioned by me at the preceding interview. I stated that I had destroyed all Houston's letters to me. This was not correct. I have some of them. I declare that this statement is taken down by Mr Labouchere, at my dictation, in the presence of Mr Sala.

(Signed) Richard Pigott.

PARIS LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent)

Paris, Feb. 19.

It would be useless disguising the fact, that the situation of France is very grave, be the fault attributable to whatever cause it may. The country may be said to be in a state of agony revolt against the Chamber of Deputies, and also the Executive. Hence, the absence of respect for these undermines their normal influence. Obviously in the presence of such relations, a separation or divorce becomes the one thing needful. The only solution is an appeal to the country, to convoke the electors, in March instead of in October.

The legislators seem to be unable to recognise or dislike to believe that they are no longer in touch with the country. They think that in making lobby plans for carrying on the Government, and organizing scratch majorities in the Chamber, the people are satisfied, perhaps charmed at their party skill. It was disgust that was generated in the electoral bosom, this turned quickly into discontent, and now menaces hostility. Public opinion plainly and simply desires, that the deputies, the republicans of all shades, and the blind leaders of the blind, go away and never come back. That's Boulangism in a nut-shell.

But they will not adopt that chivalrous course, such is their love of office and their passion for power. Between the present and October, the legislators indulge in the fool's paradise of being able to remount the current of their unpopularity; a current which in its instinctive wish, if unable to indicate precisely what it wants, leaves nothing to be misunderstood of what it dislikes. The ministry Floquet fiddled while Rome was burning. The country called for a clean sweep, and the premier threw it that tub for a whale—the Scrutin d'Arrondissement. Voted by a hollow coalition, he was ejected from office, the moment he brought forward his fanciful scheme of revision, which no creature was ever known to examine. Condemned unanimously by public opinion, for its incapacity and short comings; pronounced to be dead for all solid reforms, the Chamber instead of dissolving has held on us if to a Medusa raft. There are 584 deputies, each enjoying a stipend of 900 fr. a year. How many of the Solons cling to nine months unearned increment, as the mobile of their limpet attachment to useless seats?

If the country be left many days longer without a Government, it is impossible to avoid an explosion. The people, the most easy to rule in the world, if only treated commonsensely, asked their deputies, since they would persist in remaining legislators till October, to do so; but to keep quiet, vote the budget, adjourn, and allow the Exhibition to have its chance, which at same time, would bring back prosperity to those who were suffering and sorrowing in silence. But no; the old spirit of, "you below, and I above,', dominated, and hence the sadness of the situation. Even Job's patience would become exhausted at the spectacle.

President Carnot has committed the blunder that M. Grévy made: he has shown his preference for a party. He is accused of descending into the arena, to aid the Opportunists, and to constitute a fighting ministry. All this has thrown oil on the flames. The republic must be national and unexclusive or not at all. It is not the republic of Jules Ferry or Charles Floquet or George Clemenceau, that is demanded, but the republic of all Frenchmen; it is the orthodoxy of the whole nation, not the cramped credo of a set or a sect.

If national suffrage be resisted by the deputies and the executive; if M. Carnot refuses to sign a decree for the holding, within a reasonably short period—before the opening of the Exhibition—of the general elections, it will be next to impossible to avoid a revolution. Macmahon when unmistakably summoned, through Gambetta, to submit or to retire, loyally chose the latter course. But at present, the powers that be will do neither the one nor the other; and popular opinion insists on their doing both.

A rising would sweep away by violence what fair means failed to do. Possibly the current, selecting the most prominent individual in view, would choose General Boulanger, to rule the confusion—as did General Eugène Cavaignac in 1848—till the elections were held, and the new assembly united. That would be the decisive moment for the country. Under which King?

Any outbreak must lead to the postponement of the Exhibition—an event that would be positively disastrous. It looks so inviting; its attractions are so numerous; it breathes peace on earth and good will towards men; it is the spot where every comer can find, and sit under for a season, his own vine and fig tree. And the world wants a breathing time, a halt, a haven of rest.

The news continues to be bad from Tonkin. The Black Flags clearly make incursions into that protectorate a business. It is the continual dripping, dripping, of lives and money, that exasperates the French. They see nothing coming to repay their sacrifices, save a demand as pitiless as the grave, for more and more. It is quite possible that the next parliament will vote the evacuation of Tonkin. That would be a severe blow for the prestige of France in the East, and would be felt in all her possessions.

But what about Boulanger? He has only to remain quiet, and the fruit will tumble into his lap. Does he mean war? I do not think he would court it; nor would he go exactly quite out of his way to avoid it. As soon as France completes her preparations round Lyons and the Italian frontier, it will be difficult to perceive, where the Teuton could break in. SERIOUS CHARGES A... RAILWAY— ... CHANGES.

One of the most l... ever been our lot to ... ed yesterday to the ... ment—12 closely-wri... prolific pen of Sub-Ins... runs full tilt against the Northern Railway. Mr. Koranda's remarks deal solely with the rolling-stock which, with the exception of a few brand-new carriages, is in a deplorable state of neglect. In the first place, he says, the engines are not fit to drag any train. The wheels are worn out to a dangerous degree and he is of opinion the locomotives should be all immediately sent to the workshops for thorough repairs. Mr. Koranda then devotes half a dozen pages to describing little mishaps which go to carry out his statement. In regard to the passenger-carriages they are, with few exceptions, left in a complete state of neglect. The seats are dirty and worn out. The tone of the whole report is one of complaint and the Inspector requests the Department to deal severely with the railway. The inspector's charges are serious enough, but the other side of the question has yet to be heard. We are quite sure things cannot be so bad as described by Mr. Koranda, at least the public do not appear to complain.

After writing the above, and at a late hour we learn, that Mr. Pirovano, acting on Inspector Koranda's suggestion, sent a note yesterday evening to the Home-Minister urging him to deal severely with the line. Mr. Pirovano opines that a term of 6 months be allowed to put their line in proper working order.

In regard to the Antofagasta and Bolivia Railway we note that the section from Ascotan to Ollagua, 74 kilometres, is ready to be opened for traffic. It is proposed to divide the line, which will have a total length of 434 kilometres from Antofagasta to Ollagua, into two sections, viz: Antofagasta to Ascotan, and Ascotan to Ollagua, and the journey will be performed in two days.

The Government has approved the contract made by the Minister of Interior with Mr R A Wilkinson for construction of a line of railway, without guarantee, subvention or bounty, which starting from a certain point on the Pacific line between Lujan and Villa Mercedes passes through Carmen de Areco, Salto, Rojas, Villa Colon, and Melincue to meet and join the Prebble and Ware concession.

The Government has extended its permission to the French railway company recently formed in Paris with capital of 5 million francs, to work in this Republic, providing it fix its legal domicile in this city.

The Arauco Railways Co. has been authorized to open for traffic the section from San Pedro to Coronel. The authorization is accompanied by a rider to the effect that the permission shall extend to May 15, and in order that it may remain in force after that date the Company must show that the line has been fenced in according to law; that the necessary culverts have been constructed; and that the slopes of the cutting at the entrance to Coronel have been increased to 1½ is to 1.

DEATH OF JOHN BRIGHT.

The Right Hon. John Bright, whose death was announced yesterday, was the son of the late Jacob Bright of Greenbank, near Rochdale, where he was born, Nov. 16, 1811. Having received the rudiments of a substantial English education, he entered his father's business and became a member of the firm of John Bright and Brothers, cotton-spinners and manufacturers of Rochdale. At a comparatively early age he began to address local audiences on social and politico-economical topics, and he delivered, at a literary institution i... his native town, a series of lectures e... bodying his reminiscences of a Tour t... Mr. Milner Gibson by larger majorities. A few months afterwards, the death of Mr. Muntz caused a vacancy in the representation of Birmingham: the constituency invited Mr. Bright to become a candidate; he was elected in Aug. 1857, and has continued to represent that borough down to the present time. After 1857 his name was mainly identified with a scheme for the reform of the electoral representation, by a wide extension of the suffrage and a more equal distribution of the seats with reference to population, and alterations in the law of entail. He was an uncompromising advocate of the North during the civil war in America, and after the close of the struggle he renewed the agitation for reform. He visited Ireland, and he was entertained at a banquet in Dublin, Oct. 30, 1866, on an invitation signed by upwards of 20 Irish Liberal members of Parliament. On Nov. 3, 1868, he was presented with the freedom of the city of Edinburgh, and in the following month he accepted office under Mr. Gladstone, as President of the Board of Trade. After being absent from the House of Commons for some time in consequence of severe illness, he was compelled to retire from office in Dec. 1870. His health having been partially restored, he was in Aug. 1873, appointed to the Chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster in succession to Mr. Childers, and he held that post until the Liberals went out of office in Feb. 1874. When the Liberals returned to power in May, 1880, Mr. Bright was re-appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. On July 17, 1882, he announced in the House of Commons that he had resigned his office and retired from the Cabinet because he differed from his colleagues on their policy in Egypt which led to the bombardment of Alexandria. On the question of Home Rule for Ireland, Mr. Bright supported the Unionist opposition to Mr. Gladstone's Bill, and his denunciations of the measure went far to ensure its rejection and the subsequent return of a Unionist majority to Parliament. Mr. Bright was elected Lord Rector of the University of Glasgow, Nov. 15, 1880. A collection of his "speeches on Questions of Public Policy" was published in 2 vols., 1868.

We snip the following Electric Tramway news from a recent exchange:—"The application of electricity to street railways in America is proceeding rapidly. Already nine lines are fully equipped and running, while twenty-two are being built, and fifteen others have been contracted for. In Richmond, twelve miles of track are being operated on the overhead system. The current is conveyed by a contract wire 1 in. diameter, and at an electro-motive force of 450 volts."

We received the following note yesterday:—

Dear STANDARD,

Many of your readers both in this city and Valparaiso will learn with deep regret that Mr. Edward Friend, late commander of the ill-fated Pacific Royal Mail Steamer Valparaiso, has been lost at sea in the s.s. Gulf of Guayaquil, which left Liverpool for the West Coast of South America on the 24th December last and foundered, with all hands, in mid-ocean after having been in collision. The sad announcement of the death appears in Obituary Column of the Liverpool Post of the 23rd ult. Warm and appreciative testimony can be borne to Captain Friend's invariable courtesy and kindness to all whose happy lot it was to travel with him.

Yours truly

Still another mad-dog victim arrived yesterday from Montevideo for Dr Davel's treatment. It is quite evident that the mad dog is increasing and multiplying in the sister city far too fast for the comfort of the inhabitants.

There seems to be a good deal more going on in mining in Banda Oriental than supposed on this side. Over forty gold and copper mines are said to have been "denounced" in that republic during last year. "Denunciation," however, though a necessary, is a small part of mining in these regions. Probably not one of the forty new mines is being worked.

Quarantine at Corrientes on vessels from Matto Grosso has been abolished, as the existence of yellow fever at the latter place has been officially denied. This is pleasant. For what purpose was the false report of fever started? That's the question.

This was another anxious, trying day on 'Change, and very great complaints were made as to the uncertainty of the current gold prices. Thus gold was sold in one street at 159.50, and in another at 160.50, whilst on the Bolsa nothing was known as to the proper rates. It seems that there are very few sellers of gold on time, and hence parties who have to make gold payments in 60 or 90 days are buying gold cash and holding it in the banks. The month's liquidation in gold is not one-half finished, and many fear great difficulties, as some parties find it much harder to get gold than they anticipated, and the banks give very little and charge very dear. Gold ruled in the street this afternoon at 162 cash and for end of month, and few sellers.
Three hundred Bolsa Shares sold at 240, which is a large operation in this stock.
It is thought that owing to the great movement going on in produce, more bills will be offering next week. Not much done in exchange to-day; the rates the same as yesterday.
Mr. Busk, of Paraguay, was welcomed; he leaves in a few days for Europe. He reports everything progressing wonderfully in Paraguay. Dr. Stewart and Mr. Valpy were expected at Asuncion when he left.
Mr. Tamini's Spanish-American London Directory is a handy little book, and has just been received by the mail. We recommend it to merchants.
Messrs. Tornquist and Co. have moved into their magnificent warehouses and offices in Calle Piedad, without exception the finest in this city. We have seen nothing in London or Paris in our travels to surpass them.
Operations in stocks at the first hour were principally confined to National Bank Shares, Credito Real, Bolsa Bank Shares and Constructors. The two latter shewed conspicuous improvement in rates and they came in for much notice, the rates closing at 60 and 127½ for end of month respectively. National Bank Shares are in good demand for end of April, but the quantity of sellers for end month is keeping prices down, they opened to-day at 264, fell to 262 and closed at 263½. One lot of Italian Bank Shares, 300 fetched 2.90 for end June this being at the same rate as the last transaction reported. French Bank Shares fetched 20o/o premium and Constructors advanced to 127 for cash and 130 end of April. In Cedulas, Provincial N. monopolise all attention, but the sales are not to say heavy.
The following is a summary of operations effected this morning at the first ring:—

Two notices were posted up at the ring to-day, one advising brokers to hand in on or before April 1st all operations pending, with amounts and dates of maturity. The other notice has to do with the arrangement of business, and specifies that from 1st April there will be only one official hour for business, from 2.30 to 3.30 p.m., and that liquidations must be handed in before 2 p.m. instead of 2.30 p.m.
The National Bank did nothing in discounts yesterday, but the Provincial Bank of La Plata discounted to amount of 1½ million dollars.
The Banco Constructor de La Plata has made another call on its shareholders for 10 o/o, making 90 o/o paid up on the stock. Payment must be effected from 1st to 15th April.
An important sale of maize is reported, being 100,000 bags of next crop, at 2.45 the 100 kilos; buyer, a leading firm in this market, and delivery to be made in San Pedro or San Nicolas in May, June, and July. Messrs. Andreu and Labro have been the brokers in the business.
Private telegrams from Rio announce the exchange rate on London down to 27⅞d. the 1000 reis. Sovereigns are quoted at 8840 reis.
There was a stormy session in the municipality yesterday over a claim made by Mr. Maldonado to be allowed to buy some lands near Palermo which he has occupied as tenant since the year 1860. It seems that in the year 1872 he made a formal claim to buy the lands, but then let the matter drop without taking any further steps, and now wishes to be allowed to purchase at the prices ruling in that year. Later on in 1887 he made a renewal claim, and the corporation have now decided that he be declared the purchaser at the valuation of the latter year, as it was entirely through his own remissness that the matter had not previously been arranged. This settles a very vexed question.
We heard to-day that the Bahia Blanca bank shares offered for subscription have been over covered, and that applications for over 100 shares will receive allotments pro rata
The province is rising en masse against the Contribucion Directa valuations. Dr. Zeballos received yesterday a petition to this effect from Rojas, signed by all the estancieros of the partido, and we hear that similar petitions are being signed in all the other partidos.

The current rates of gold on the evening were not definitely known but it seems that some parties are selling at 161½ though 163 was asked in different parts earlier in the day. The National Bank gives nothing as it will not receive applications without the sale being set down which must afterwards go to the Board and merchants to avoid this go elsewhere.
We learned at a late hour that the Nat. Bank gave all the gold asked at 159.
Operations at the second hour were important in stocks, but about half past four the brokers all got fatigued and many retired, after which the animation fizzled and little or nothing was done. It is quite evident that a two hours' ring is too much for brokers' endurance and a return to the old system would be advisable. National Bank Shares opened at 264, but sellers were so numerous that they soon began to decline, touching 261½ after which they reacted steadily and finally closed at 263 and a ½ point lower for April. Bolsa bank shares boomed up to 60, 3 points over the morning rate. La Plata Moles were a trifle weak at 128¼ for end of month. Credito Real opened at 138 and closed two points lower, but in demand. Catalinas shares ruled steady and constructors booming at 128½ for to-morrow and end of month and 134 for end of May. In Cedulas there is little speculation for the moment, but rates keep up.
The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

Mr. Legarreta's resignation of the post of President of the Camara Sindical, which was presented at a late hour yesterday, was the subject of much comment in the hall to-day, as he is an universal favorite, amongst all classes for his urbanity and business qualities. His services to the Bolsa have been many and important, and his connection with the hospital will link his name lastingly to perhaps the noblest work ever conceived or begot inside the Temple of Mammon. Four times consecutively was he elected to his present important post by the unanimous vote of the members. Late events have, however, provoked such difference of opinion amongst his colleagues that he has felt called upon to resign and it only now remains to be seen whether the resignation will be accepted or not.

The s.s. Hibernian, Allan line, arrived to-day in Montevideo from Glasgow, consigned to Messrs. Samson and Co.
We take the following from Money, the leading English financial journal:—
"To the Editor of Money,—
"SIR,—Seeing your remarks on the premium on gold in the Argentine Republic, may I ask you if it is likely to come down soon again, and whether you would recommend me to sell Hard Dollar Bonds and Cedulas B at present prices, or hold on to them?—Yours, etc., HARD DOLLAR."
[". We see no immediate prospect of the gold premium declining, but of course it entirely depends upon speculation. As to your selling Hard Dollar Bonds and Cedulas B, we see no special reason why you should do so, unless you want to realize. They are both attended with a certain amount of risk, owing to the enormous speculation in land going on in the Argentine Republic. We should certainly prefer to hold the Hard Dollar Bonds to Cedulas, as the risk attending the latter is much greater, being far more speculative.—ED."]
From the Live Stock Journal we take the following:—
"Mr. Robert Andrew, Smeaton, Dalkeith, has just shipped, to the order of Mr. Fortune, Buenos Ayres, South America, four Clydesdale stallions and two fillies. The stallions are Royal Blue, Dinner Bell, Sir Thomas Dearie, and Dundonald Prince; and the fillies, Miss Macpherson and Black Bess.
"Royal Blue 6236, by Ettrick Shepherd 2763, was foaled June, 1885, and bred by Mr. David Gray, Barrmoorhill, Tarbolton, Ayrshire. He is descended best of blood, inheriting it through his sire to gr gr sire Pride of Galloway, to his gr gr sire Gladstone, and on Gladstone's dam sire Walter Scott, Young Campsie, to Old Campsie, which were both first prize National Show winners.
"Dinner Bell was bred by Mr. Charles Kennedy, Glengyre, Stranraer, Wigtonshire, in 1886, and is a colt of great substance, compactness, and action combined. His sire Whae Cares I was considered one of the best breeding gets of the far-famed Prince of Wales 673 (Vol. 1) which died the other day in his 23rd year.
"Sir Thomas Desaire was foaled in 1886, sire by Vice Roy. He is a colt of good quality and action, and and well adapted for crossing mares to leave a valuable stock. His fore-bearers trace into some of the best strains in the Clydesdale Stud-book.
"Dundonald Prince (Vol 12) was foaled Nay, 1887, bred by Mr. Hugh Todd, Harpenland, Dundonald, Ayrshire, and sired by Golden Times. He is a well-bred colt showing all the points, and inheriting through his ancestors Lorne, Prince of Wales, and Sir William Wallace, which had no equal as a getter of heavy horses, with sound feet and legs, and Rob Roy, which left some of the best stock in Campeltown, where he travelled several seasons.
"Miss Macpherson was bred by Mr. Alex. Macpherson, Bridge of Weir, Renfrewshire, by Young Commander 4943. She is a fine, big filly, hard to get over in any company, while she combines prize-winning blood with much personal symmetry. Black Bess was bred by Mr. Andrews, sired by Prince Henry 4638. She is possessed of rare quality of bone and good feather, and is descended of famous prize-winning stock." Two, we may add, died on their way out; the other four are in Flowers's yard.
